GOT ANOTHER FARM

John D. Taylor, the candidate for the state senate, got another farm in about the same way he did the widow Joy's 72 acres, this place being known as the Billy Adams place 6 miles north of this city, and tho he had the title to it and had hastily borrowed considerable money on it, the rightful owner, W. P. (Pat) Thrash brot suit to set aside the conveyance to Taylor, alleging fraud, and the judgment of the circuit court at Salisbury sustained his plea.

The facts are about as follows: Thrash bid in the 80 acres at a foreclosure sale and got the title to the farm; there was a mortgage to an Omaha loan company at the time of his purchase, which was a first lien, the sale being for default in payment of a second deed trust, the first mortgage standing against Thrash. When the interest on this mortgage became due, Thrash sent the amount to the company at Omaha only to have his draft returned with the advice to see John D. Taylor about it. Thrash saw Taylor to no purpose.

The land was advertised in one of the papers with little circulation in spite of Thrash's tender of the amount of interest due, and the sale took place at the court house in Keytesville at the earliest possible moment permissible under the terms of the deed trust. Thrash had made arrangements for the money to buy the land in, but according to the testimony the sale was conducted in such a way as to give him no chance to protect himself, and John D.
Taylor became the purchaser, the substitute trustee executing the proper deed to him for the farm. He at once borrowed money on it and settled down in fancied security that he had a lot of something for a mighty little of nothing. Thrash was not content, brot suit alleging fraud, the court sustained the petition, and instead of the decree being put of record it was agreed between Thrash and Taylor that Taylor and wife would make deed, in connection with another party who had been introduced into the case by Taylor for some purpose, and that the judgment of record should show that it was against Thrash, which it does. Taylor got possession of the Omaha mortgage, got title to the land by foreclosing it in the face of the offer to pay what was due on it, borrowed a goodly sum on the farm, lost it by a decree of the circuit court which was not permitted by him to go on the record for obvious reasons, and running for the senate with as much assurance as a man who was not in the habit of grabbing farms could possibly exhibit. The proximity of the meeting house, Adams Chapel on the corner of the farm was doubtless attracting the Honorable.

The Paris Appeal says that Farmer Jones is a democrat and against the law which put a republican on an equal footing with democrats in small towns like Holliday in postoffice matters.
Does the Appeal mean to say that Farmer Jones is against the Civil Service law? If so, why did it not also inform its readers that Congressman Rucker beat him to it in the matter of the selection of P. M.'s when the point was raised in the House some time ago? The Appeal man is acquainted with the debate on the subject and could make interesting reading for his subscribers if he would print what Rucker said on the question. No such question is raised except by disappointed applicants for postoffices or their friends, and until the Appeal can point to some new post master who is not qualified and thoroughly satisfactory to the majority of the patrons of the office, it should refrain from misleading statements.

Salisbury Scribbings

Haven Bozarth whose illness we mentioned last week, died at Woodland hospital in Moberly Friday July 3rd 1914 aged 24 years. We learn he underwent two operations and all was done for him that skill could do, but his condition was so serious that no remedy could avail. He was a young man of much promise, respected by all who knew him and his funeral was one of the largest ever held here. He leaves a wife, mother and sisters and brothers to mourn his untimely death. We tender condolence to the bereaved ones.

Loring Stockwell of St. Louis was here the first of the week to visit his father and mother.

Charlie Lee Bowman of Seattle came in this week for a visit and rest.

Mrs. Berta Wood nee Henderson of Fulton is here on a visit and everybody is glad to see her.

The 4th passed off here much like Sunday and aside from some noise, not much was doing.
The postoffice and banks closed as usual and a few flags were in evidence.

Geo. Henderson has an infected arm, the result of poison oak or chigger bite.

Genevieve Gallemore spent Sunday in the country the guest of her friend, Grace Callison and had the time of her life.

Work on the ice plant is progressing. It is located on the S. W. corner of the Model Mill property.

Dr. O. T. Morey who has been sick about two weeks with a bad case of tonsillitis is improving.
